

G3 Heart K. Angeles

11- Kepler

Status Quo

Cassandra lived in an ordinary world together with her loving mother. She grew up getting what she wants and one day she met a man whom she loved at first sight. However, this man does not feel the same for her. And so, she read books and searched for ways to make the man reciprocate her love.

Call to Adventure

In her search she discovered a necklace in the north that has the answer to her problem. Immediately, she bid her farewell to her mom and began her journey to the north. While waiting for the bus, she received a text message from an unknown number. The text told her to quit and go back to her normal life. Cassandra paused and stared at the bus. She looked back and pondered what might she lose if she continues her journey. She sighed and continued with one mission in her mind: She will not go home until he loves her as much as she loves him.

Assistance

With only the man in her mind, she rode the bus and sat beside a young girl. The young girl smiled and pointed the collar of her blouse which has a note attached to it. Stunned, she read the note and looked at the young girl with so many questions in her mind. The young girl chuckled as if she had read Cassandra's mind and gave her a map whom she should follow.

Departure

Cassandra went down the bus and followed the directions on the map.

Trial

She turned right and left and went straight ahead just like how the map says but she keeps on getting back to where she was before. She sat and rested for a few seconds until she remembered the letter that the young girl had pointed out. The letter says, "It will tell you where it is if only you know where to start."

Approach

She looked around and saw a paper with the word debut in it. Cassandra started her walk from where the paper was and found herself walking towards an ancestral house.

Crisis

She knocked and knocked but no one answered her call so she went inside and there she found a gold necklace. She reached for the necklace but what seemed so near was out of reach. Cassandra fell in an abyss in her attempt to get jewelry. Suddenly, everything was black and she could not see her body nor where she was. Seconds after she saw a faint light and walked towards it. She saw another note and read it.

Touch me now and receive a treasure

But do not regret in the near future.

Treasure

After reading the note, she fainted and woke up in front of the necklace. She subconsciously touched the necklace and felt an agonizing pain.

Result

She went out of the house and ran frantically towards the road. There she saw a man and a woman with red hearts. Confused, she blinked and blinked but the hearts were still there in front of her eyes. She asked the man and the woman if they know one another but the two just looked into each other's eyes and shrugged. That moment the two red hearts glowed and fluttered. Cassandra knew then and there that the necklace that she had touched were treasures not for her but for other people.

Return

Cassandra with a heavy heart rode the bus to go back home. Arriving at the terminal, she saw the man whom she loved carrying a young girl. She saw their hearts and they were glowing but the light was blue in color. She followed her love and heard him say, "I love you, my child." Cassandra saw how their hearts glowed and how happy they were and so she smiled with tears in her eyes and left the terminal.

Resolution and New Life

Cassandra went back home and saw her mother staring blankly at the window. She noticed how her heart was dull and passive not like the ones she saw before. She looked closely and saw longing in her mother's eyes. Cassandra then realized that the necklace she had found made a way for her to find a love better than the ones she was looking for. She hugged her mother tightly and she saw how their hearts glowed as one. Since then, Cassandra promised herself to help other people find their one true love through the help of the glowing hearts.